THE CLOSETORIUM

OPEN A CLOSETORIUM

Turn your community's clothing into a shared resource.

A new way to dress. A new way to share.
A movement toward a world without textile waste.

The Closetorium is a women-led nonprofit on a mission to reduce textile waste by transforming the way communities access, exchange, and circulate clothing. Through a community-powered fashion library, we give garments more lives and people more ways to participate in sustainable style.

Now, we're inviting passionate people to help bring this mission to communities across the country.

YOUR COMMUNITY. OUR MISSION. A SHARED FUTURE.

You don't need to have everything figured out to get started. You need a belief in the mission, a willingness to build community, and a vision for what clothing sharing could look like where you live.

As a Closetorium affiliate, you'll receive a defined launch framework, access to shared resources, and guidance to help you establish your local fashion library.

Every garment shared is an opportunity to reduce waste. Every community that participates helps make clothing circulation a more accessible, everyday practice.

We believe the future of fashion can be built through sharing - and that the movement grows one community at a time.
